

Heather has been a CRPS warrior since December 2017 following surgery for a Morton's neuroma and previous surgery 6 months prior on the same foot for a Lis Franc injury. CRPS is a terrifying diagnosis, but Heather admits she was more afraid of a lifetime of taking opiates like oxycodone than she was afraid of living with a beast of a disease like CRPS. She knew CRPS would not kill her, but the opiates could.

Heather comes from years of experience in operations and sales in the medical/pharmaceutical industry in both dermatology and ironically, pain management specialties. She has spent the last several years in sales and marketing for top B2B publication in the home furnishings industry. Just recently, due to newfound hope and pain relief & anxiety from CBD, Heather recently joined Seed2System as National Sales Director.

Sharing hope to others living with chronic pain and those searching for a healthier way of life is Heather's goal with Seed2System.
